Breathing hope

Help for patients with lung conditions praised

By KATE TURNER

An East Lancashire health initiative to help people with breathing problems has been praised for its health benefits.

More than 1,000 residents suffering from long-term lung conditions have been helped through courses aimed at helping people gain control of their condition.

The 12-week courses, run through the NHS Community Health Services, advise and give guidance on breathing techniques, self-pacing, energy conservation, and nutrition.

Patients attending the programme have praised it, saying "My breathing has improved", "I have more confidence in managing my condition", and 'Walking has become easier".

And 77per cent of patients showed a marked improvement after the first 12 weeks, with almost 75per cent maintaining that improvement after six months, and 64per cent after 12 months.

Carol White, clinical lead for pulmonary rehabilitation, said: "Once people know the techniques, they achieve appropriate self-management and that sets good practice for life. Our area has a high number of patients because of the levels of deprivation and the legacy of heavy industry. Our service aims to improve people's quality of life and we have made major strides forward for a lot of people."

More than 8,000 people across East Lancashire have been diagnosed with such conditions – known collectively as chronic obstructive pulmonary disease.

People from across Hyndburn, Burnley, Pendle, Rossendale and Ribble Valley have benefitted from the scheme.

With breathing and lung problems, many sufferers lose their mobility and can become virtually 'trapped' in their homes, leading to feelings of depression and social isolation. The service also provides support groups across the area so patients can pop in at any time.

Eight courses of 12-week programmes are held at St Peter's Centre, in Burnley; Briercliffe Health Centre, Burnley; Yarnspinners Health Centre, Nelson; Clitheroe Hospital; Bacup Health Centre; and Friar Court, Accrington.

VALLEY WINDOWS & CONSERVATORIES

OPEN WEEKEND

SAT. 15TH - SUN. 16TH AUGUST 10AM - 4PM

THIS weekend Valley Windows and Conservatories are holding an Open Weekend to give you the opportunity to come along and view some of their new range of products.

2BR will be running a live broadcast on Saturday 15th August, offering one of our lucky customers the opportunity to win £10,000 cash on the day.

The attractive canalside location will be open to the public from 10am to 4pm on Saturday and Sunday this week. Over the weekend there will be face painting for the children, chocolate fountain, champagne reception, along with light refreshments throughout the day.

We feel we have moved into a new era. With many new styles and all colours throughout the spectrum available, presenting a more natural look, which have proven extremely popular in conservation areas.

Bring along any estimates, measurements or photos of your home for a quote on the day. Special offers not to be repeated.

We are now building more substantial stone based or all season rooms, garden rooms and orangeries and for the first time these are available for you on display, actually on your doorstep. Which you may have only seen on the likes of Grand Designs

PC a blaze hero on first day in job

By CHRIS HOPPER

A hero PC dragged an unconscious woman from a burning house on his first day in a new job.

Chris Hutchinson was hours into his first shift as a community beat manager, in the Trinity ward of Burnley, when he leapt into action to rescue the woman and a man from the burning house – seconds before it exploded.

But modest dad-of-one PC Hutchinson, who lives in Oswaldtwistle and marries fiancee Nancy on Saturday, said anyone else would have done the same.

The officer was riding his police bike in Piccadilly Road when a passer-by alerted him to the house fire.

PC Hutchinson, 29, said: "There was smoke coming out of a front window, so I looked in and saw the curtains open and a woman unconscious on the floor.

"I phoned the fire brigade, put the door in with my baton and a dog came at me, which the man who'd shown me the house took care of.

"I noticed there was also a man in there, so I woke him up and put him out of the window.

"When I went to the woman, she was unconscious. I dragged her to the window and my colleague PC had arrived and between us we got her out.

"I got out and half-a-minute later, the window came smashing out with an explosion."

PC Hutchinson, who has a 16-month-old son, George, added: "I don't want to come across as a hero. I didn't think at the time and it was only afterwards that I thought, what if it had blown up?

"The fire brigade said I shouldn't have gone in there, but if I hadn't we could have been looking at two deaths."

After the incident last Thursday, police found a cannabis farm in the Piccadilly Road property.

PC Hutchinson became Trinity CBM after a spell with the Operation Sherlock team at Burnley Police Station.

Surprise party for brave young Kia

By NAFEESA SHAN

SECRET'S OUT: Kia Shaw with mum Carol and dad Dean and, right, her surprise at the club

A Darwen schoolgirl had her first birthday party since she was diagnosed with a rare genetic condition.

Kia Shaw last celebrated her birthday with a party when she turned four, but has been unable to have one since due to her unpredictable health.

On Sunday, the former Holy Trinity Primary School pupil was shocked and stunned when mum Carol Halligan surprised her with an 11th birthday party and fundraiser at Highfield WMC, Darwen.

Kia suffers from Shwach-man-Diamond syndrome, a condition that stops the immune system from working. There are only about 50 families affected in the UK and it can be fatal.

Kia, of Starkie Street, Darwen, said: "I was in shock. It was a nice surprise. Usually I have my birthdays at home."

Carol put together an elaborate story to ensure Kia would wear her prom dress to see her grandmother in Oswaldtwistle, but told her they would stop off to see her father, Dean, on the way at the club. Carol secured raffle prizes from Blackburn Rovers, while bosses at the club donated the venue free and Mill Hill Football Club gave £50.

Carol said: "It couldn't have gone any more perfect. It was brilliant.

"She knew nothing about it. I was a bit concerned she wouldn't be well enough, but ususually I can see the signs if she is going to be ill. She knows she will have a bone marrow transplant before she is 16 and I wanted her to have some good memories from one of her birthdays for when the time comes."

Street revamp

By TOM MOSELEY

Part of one of Blackburn's finest streets, which has been unoccupied for five years, is in line for a major facelift.

A fresh drive is to be made to let a block of offices on a section of Richmond Terrace – once the home of Blackburn's wealthiest residents.

The owners of the site are promising to spend £300,000 converting the former home of Pierce Chartered Accountants to three office complexes.

The red-brick buildings are part of a grade-two listed terrace, built around 1835, and part of a conservation area.

Ray Smith, chairman of Blackburn Local History Society, said: "Originally it was all occupied by the gentry of the town. It was for wealthy and professional people who had servants."

The history expert said he hoped to see Richmond Terrace restored to its former glory. "It is one of the most important streets in Blackburn," he said.

Property developer Salim Patel, of the Adhan Group, which owns the building, said it had previously been in the hands of investors based in London and Manchester who had failed to rent it out.

He added: "It's a very good building, but the front needs painting and it needs new windows and doors.

"If it's not up to spec, people will shy away from it."

The renovation work is expected to start in the next couple of weeks.

Extra Date August 13th for questions & answers

Have your say on orbital route

A six week consultation into an important phase of Blackburn's orbital route is underway.

An exhibition featuring maps of four options for the road is on display at the East Lancashire Deaf Society in Kings Court, 33 King Street, Blackburn.

Residents and businesses are being asked to come along and give their feedback.

You can also view the four options in detail and have your say online via www.blackburn.gov.uk/transportplan

The display will be staffed by council officers on Thursday August 13th between noon and 1pm & 6pm - 7pm to answer any questions.

The exhibition will be on display until Friday 21st August

Lee stands up and delivers

FIVE MINUTES WITH ... Lee Mack

TELL US WHAT THE WEEKEND HAS IN STORE FOR YOU...
Well, Friday's when my work really begins. That's when I'm spending my time at the little pubs and clubs, trying out material and seeing what works.

YOU'RE PREPARING FOR A MAJOR TOUR NEXT YEAR. HOW ARE YOU ENJOYING PLAYING SMALLER VENUES IN PREPARATION?
I'm loving it. I just turn up at the little clubs and give things a try. It feels like I haven't done that circuit for a long time. I'm getting all nostalgic, remembering when I started out. Sometimes it will be just 20 or 30 people in the crowd, and that's got a very different feeling to playing for hundreds.

DO MANY BIG-NAME COMEDIANS STILL PERFORM AT THE SMALLER VENUES?
Most do. It keeps a freshness to your act and it helps you to find out whether your jokes are going to make just you laugh, or anybody else. There's one place I love that maybe has a capacity of 80 people. Tim Vine, Omid Djalili and Andy Parsons have all tried stuff there. One night, the line-up was Omid Djalili, followed by Al Murray, and then the manager came out and said that he reckoned the crowd were all busy telling each other there was no way he could top that with a headliner. So he brought out Robin Williams, who did 15 minutes and brought the house down.

Popular comedian Lee Mack is a team captain on Would I Lie To You? on BBC One on Mondays. The 40-year-old, who was born in Blackburn and later moved to Southport, also writes and stars in BBC sitcom Not Going Out. For online details about his new stand-up tour, see www.leemacklive.com

ADVERTORIAL

The ever popular Godfather take-away in Darwen has opened its doors as the towns newest Italian restaurant.

The Godfather in Darwen has always been proud to be a favourite with local residents for their fine take-away pizzas and kebabs but the owners are keen to stress that the restaurant is completely separate.

"The pizza dough used for our restaurant pizzas is made using different ingredients and the whole menu is brand new for the restaurant with plenty of additions which are unique to the restaurant side. We hope people will enjoy our food and keep coming back to experience our friendly and relaxed atmosphere" one of the owners, Keyvan, told us. The Italian restaurant, which opened for the first time last weekend, is split over two floors in the building next door to the pre-existing take-away shop in Duckworth Street, Darwen. To help encourage people to call in for the first time they are offering free corkage when you bring your own bottle of wine for a limited time. "We will continue to allow people to bring their own wine in future, but we plan on introducing a corkage fee at some point." Keyvan explained.

Darwen's new Italian restaurant is ideal for functions too and they will happily take bookings of 50+ people for Christmas parties, works parties, christenings etc. Keyvan told us how the restaurant will be family orientated and children are more than welcome with a special "early bird" set menu for those who wish to dine a little earlier (4pm-7pm), offering 2 courses for £10.50 and 3 courses for £12.95, and a special lunchtime price of £5.95 for any Pizza or Pasta.

The Godfather Pizza House was established in 1990 and has always been a family run business which prides itself on its relationship with their customers. To tie in with the strong family relationship, the restaurant features pictures of the owners' Grandfather, Ervardo, who was born and raised in Naples, Italy.

Alongside photographs of family you will also find some old photographs of Darwen, some of which you may not have seen before - why not call in to The Godfather Restaurant next time you're popping out for a meal in Darwen?

Auction - the best way to sell

Farrell Heyworth Auctions have done it again - sold a whopping 72% of their July auction lots, bucking the local & national trend. Farrell Heyworth's auction manager, Oliver Adams commented on the huge number of pre auction viewings and offers received, "my team were absolutely rushed off their feet taking enquiries, booking viewings & dealing with offers, it just goes to show how attitudes have changed with buyers now trying to secure auction properties before they go under the hammer - this really is a positive change for the better. We sold a fabulous array of properties ranging from semi & detached bungalows, houses, terraces, development land & commercial property for private clients, investors & corporate asset management firms.

Once again with the increased competition between buyers many of the lots were sold in excess of their reserve prices & many over & above the guide prices. One particular lot sold for £25,000 over the guide price.Buyers can bid in person on the day of the auction or by telephone or proxy if they can not attend the auction & with Farrell Heyworth making free to view online legal packs there really is no reason not to bid! Properties & land were sold all over the North West including, Preston, Penwortham, Garstang, Catterall, Cleveleys, Freckleton, Barrow, Leyland, St Annes, Bolton, Chorley & Blackpool. Oliver was keen to add "if you have any property in any condition, land or a development opportunity anywhere in the North West then you need to sell through Farrell Heyworth Auctions!"

Oliver says the auction route has clear benefits for property owners keen to make a swift sale. "Buyers pay a 10% deposit on the day," he explains, "contracts are exchanged on the day of the auction and typically complete in 20 working days. There's no worry about the sale falling through, plus auctions are a particularly effective way of selling 'difficult' properties like those with structural problems or those requiring renovation. "We can sell any type of property in any condition this way, so property owners who are having difficulty selling through traditional methods improve their chances enormously by bringing them to auction. While many of the bidders are landlords and developers, a significant number go to owner occupiers, including first time buyers. Of course there are bargains to be had, but sellers are frequently surprised at the prices they achieve" said Oliver.

Farrell Heyworth's next property auction takes place on Tuesday 22 September 2009 in the Great Room at Preston North End FC. The closing date for registering properties is Monday 17 August at 5pm and anyone with an interest in selling their property via the event should contact Farrell Heyworth's Auction Department on 0845 310 5700. Additional information is also available online at www.fhauctions.com
